

Edward Bright – ‘the fat man at Maldon’ (1721 – 1750) and his family

An illustrated talk by Lynne Raymond

wea.org.uk

WEA Essex Federation are pleased to announce the final lecture in a series of five Richard Waskett Memorial Lectures, kindly sponsored by a group of his friends.

The Raymond family butcher shop in Maldon was established in 1796 by Lynne’s husband’s great-great-great grandparents William and Sarah Raymond. Lynne’s research has uncovered a wealth of new information and corrected some long-held beliefs about Maldon’s famous obese grocer who died in 1750. Her talk will include fascinating illustrations, including original images of Bright, and where he lived and worked.

When: Wednesday 2nd May 2018

Where: Chelmsford Museum, Oaklands Park, Moulsham St, Chelmsford, CM2 9AQ

Time: 2pm – 4pm

Cost: £5 (including refreshments)

Reference: C2225090
