'Jewellery Through the Ages'

A talk by Gordon Bailey

followed by tea and cakes

Gordon has been involved in the hobby of metal detecting for nearly 50 years and has written nine books on the history and identification of artefacts from the Bronze Age through to the 18th Century. He was dealing in Petticoat Lane in the East End of London aged about 14 buying and selling coins. He has amassed a fine collection of coins and artefacts from virtually every period of history and today we look forward to discovering items from his jewellery collection.
