African American Civil Rights (Reference number C2225494)

Tutor: Stephen Clarke

We welcome guest speaker, Stephen Clarke, on this One Day School where we examine the origins and development of the Civil Rights Movement in the USA. The course will offer an assessment of Martin Luther King's contribution to the movement by examining the positive and negative impact on the events of the 1950's and 1960's and review what has happened in the USA since his death in 1968.

The RAF in World War II (Reference number C2225493)

Tutor: Ian McLachlan

The course explores RAF activities during World War and the contribution of British air power to the defeat of Nazi Germany. There are numerous human interest accounts examining individual stories of personnel involved.

Lennie 100 (Reference number C2225783)

Tutor: Chris Green

Leonard Bernstein was born in 1918, and his Centenary presents an opportunity to examine his life and work exploring the many and different aspects including pianist, composer, conductor, and presenter of radio and television programmes about music.
